

Thin lines are individual subjects, shown for the Fidelity kernel only; overlaying all five would give 150 crossing lines. Every kernel improves on every dataset, and on IV-2a every kernel improves in every subject. The correction is worth two to three times more on IV-2a, where the reference state is estimated from six times as many trials.